6 Ways to Increase Your Self-Esteem

1. Focus on the Present : Self-esteem increases when you focus on the present moment without ruminating on the past or dwelling on the future.

2. Accept Yourself as You are : it's important to accept yourself for who you are, without conditions.

3. Act Responsibly : To increase self-esteem, you must take self-responsibility. Self-responsibility means an accepting, positive, and voluntary attitude toward one's actions and their consequences. No one is in charge of life. Never forget that you are valuable and important enough to take charge of your own life.

4. Speak up for Your Opinions : You may think that assertiveness does not show consideration for others, and you may follow the arguments of others by putting your own opinions on the back burner. However, there is a big difference between sharing each other's ideas and insisting that only your own ideas are correct. Everyone's opinion should be respected for what it is. This is why if you want to say something, you should speak up.

5. Set Goals : A sense of purpose is a key way to get out of the idea that you are worthless. The more days you achieve your achievable goals, the higher your self-esteem and the stronger your belief in yourself.

6. Live with Integrity : You can increase your self-esteem just by having the habit of living your daily life faithfully. In order to improve your self-esteem, you must first develop a heart that loves you and do your best in what you want to do. Exercising regularly can also help.
